

Man Power

Handsome, smart and on top of it all, our very favorite gentlemen never cease to amaze.

Los Angeles—home to sunny skies, beautiful beaches and breathtaking views—is not only desirable for its surroundings but also for the variety of successful, dynamic and fascinating men who reside here. In celebration of our men's issue, we've chosen eight influential Angelenos, diverse in their chosen occupation, hobbies, neighborhood they call home and more. This charismatic (and for those wondering, unmarried) crew represents much of what we love about LA—that whether you want the best in food, entertainment, athletics, real estate or whatever you're looking for, you can find it in the City of Angels. In an attempt to encapsulate LA's tapestry of talent and culture, we've included a professional athlete, power publicist, award-winning photographer, green-living expert, TV chef, real estate mogul, singer/songwriter and celebrity. They all share a passion for their careers and the city they call home. And that's why we're passionate about them.

I love my job because... I travel to extraordinary places hardly anyone has seen and help people fall in love with them.

What I wanted to be when I grew up was... an explorer and a photographer—an international man of mystery.

I imagine myself in five years... as father to the next generation of peaceful warriors.

Some of the things I am looking for in a partner are... a conscience, a heart, lingerie and hiking boots.

On weekends, you can find me... reading a book in my garden or windsurfing at Leo Carrillo.

My ideal first date is... filled with talk and laughter, at home listening to music in front of a fire.

The quality my mom would brag about is... I am good with roses.

On a special occasion, the restaurant I choose is... The Little Door.

The neighborhood I live in is... the Hollywood Hills.

LA men are... in need of gallantry lessons.

LA women are... in need of finishing school.
